ARU voted THE University of the Year for 2023

On Thursday 7th December, Anglia Ruskin University (ARU), partner university of ARU College, attended the Times Education Awards in Liverpool.

The university was shortlisted for University of the Year, Outstanding Contribution to the Local Community, Outstanding Contribution to Equality, Diversity, and Inclusion. We are so pleased to announce that ARU was voted University of the Year for 2023. A fantastic and very well-deserved achievement and a tribute to the amazing projects, initiatives, research, and teaching that the university provides locally and globally.

ARU's submission focused on the difference we make in the region and communities where we're based – while also acknowledging the broader impact of our world-leading research, and the contributions our students and graduates make to society.

As a partner, we take immense pride in our association with ARU, a distinguished institution making significant strides in education, research, and community engagement.

What do our students have to say?

"Studying a foundation year at Anglia Ruskin University allowed me to start off my university journey and the education that I received during my foundation year at ARU added a lot to me. As an international student from Turkey, the process of a foundation year allowed me to get a grasp of the UK education system, understand the amazing resources available at the university, as-well as experience what the UK has to offer."

Berkay Ekiz
BENG Civil Engineering with Foundation Year

"The college provides great opportunities, such as team building skills, making new friends, leadership skills, skills to help you improve in class, and much more. Personally, I was provided with the opportunity to be a Unibuddy student ambassador, which helped me to improve my communication skills."

Kalp Sheth,
BSc (Hons) Business with Marketing

"From the moment I arrived in Cambridge, I found it the best of two worlds: I had access to all the shops, transport and opportunities as I would have in a big city, but I could still go to many green spaces and have that taste of home. Choosing this city as a place to study was the best decision I have ever made."
